Mrs. Imri M. Blackburn, (Louise Brown Blackburn)
Nashotah, Wis. FOREWORD

In August, 1928, Alta M. Mills published a "History of Samuel and Jane Mills and Their Descendants." In subsequent years additional statistics have been published --in small leaflets --and furnished to members of the family at the annual Reunions. It was felt that this information should be compiled into a single volume, for more permanent preservation. In 1956 Grace Mills Brown, daughter of Alta M. Mills, assisted by Rosemary Brown, began collecting the material for this fuller and up-to-date-History.

At the Reunion of 1957 that material was turned over to me with the request to complete the History. Every attempt has been made to carry out this commission with the maximum degree of accuracy. If errors are found in the transcribing of information sent in for your family, the responsibility is mine. Please report all errors to me at once, so that a corrigenda may be furnished to all who purchase the book.

Any arrangement for setting forth the genealogy of a large family is necessarily complicated. We believe the scheme used in "The Genealogy, The Descendants of Samuel and Jane White Mills" will be found to be practical and easily used. The figures, preceding the names, indicate the generation of that person from Samuel Mills, whose number is 1; his children number 2, etc. Perhaps the scheme will best be studied by reading first through those pages dealing with your immediate family.

My husband, Imri M. Blackburn, was most helpful in every step of the work involved in preparing the manuscript and bringing it to publication. I want, also, to thank all those who have furnished the information requested.

Chapter I
THE WHITES AND THEIR NAME

(Taken from a manuscript prepared by the Media Research Bureau.)

The name of White is of Welsh origin and is believed to have been taken from the ancient word Gwyn or Wynne, meaning "White." It is believed to have been given to its original bearer because of the color of his skin or hair. It is variously found in ancient records in the forms of White, Whyte, Whitt, and Wight.

It is said that the White family derives its descent from Roderick the Great 877 A.D., whose descendant, Rhys ap Tudor, King of South Wales, was slain in 1093; and from Otho, who lived in the time of Edward the Confessor, about 1042. Otho was the father of Walter Fitz Otho, who had Gerald Fitz Walter, who married Nesta, daughter of Rhys ap Tudor.

Nesta and Gerald Fitz Walter were the parents of Maurice Fitz Gerald, who had Walter White, the first known bearer of this surname. This Walter was knighted by Henry II in 1171. Robert White, of this line, was a Knight of Yorkshire in 1303. In 1394 Johannes White, Jr., was alderman and Grosinor of York. Johannes White of North Colyngham, Nottinghamshire, is named in the list of the landed gentry of 1428. Robert White, merchant and mayor of the staple of Calais, made his home at various times in the counties of Hampshire, Kent, and Surrey in the middle of the fifteenth century.

Robert, son of Robert of Calais, had two sons, Thomas and John. Thomas, son of Robert, married Agnes Richards and had four sons, George, John, Richard and Thomas, Jr. He was granted three manors in Somerset in 1556 by the king. John, son of Robert, bought lands in Tuxford, Nottinghamshire, and had a son, Thomas, who married Ann Cecil, eldest sister of William, Lord Burleigh.

Two members of the White family removed to Ireland about the year 1171. They were Walter White and his brother William (?). Others of the family later made their homes in England.

John White, Patriarch of Dorchester, England, was the descendant of an illustrious Hampshire family and was Rector of Dorchester in 1605 and of Lambeth in 1643. He was one of the founders of the Massachusetts Bay Colony and was highly instrumental in the sending of many of the Pilgrims to Plymouth, furnishing them with money and necessities. He gave the greater part of his life to the welfare of the Colony but did not, himself, make any permanent residence there.

Another member of the family, Thomas White, came to America sometime before 1630 and settled at Lynn, Mass., where he had sons and a daughter, John, Joseph, Samuel, Thomas, Hannah and Ebenezer.

The eldest of these children, John, had by his wife Anne, seven children, John, James, Richard, Sarah, Hannah, Martha and Abigail.

Elder John White, one of the first settlers of Cambridge, Mass., and of Hartford, Conn., came from London, England, in the year 1632. He was a prominent public official, first in the town of Boston and then in the two towns mentioned above. His children by his wife, Mary, were Mary, Nathaniel, John, Daniel, Sarah and Jacob. Nathaniel, eldest son of the elder John, married first, Elizabeth (last name unknown), who was the mother of his children, Nathaniel, Elizabeth, John, Mary, Daniel, Sarah, Jacob and Joseph; and second, Martha Mould, widow of Hugh Mould, of New Haven. John, second son of the elder John, married Sarah Bunce and had issue by her of Sarah and John. Daniel, third son of the elder John, settled at Hatfield, Mass., about the year 1662. He had issue by his wife, Sarah Crow, of Sarah, Mary, Daniel, Elizabeth, John, Esther, Hannah and Mehitable. Jacob, youngest son of the elder John, married Elizabeth Bunce, sister of his brother's wife, prior to 1663. There is no record of children by this marriage.

Still another John White made his home at Watertown, Mass., before 1639, where he is recorded as the owner of "Homestall and seven acres of land." His wife is believed to have been Frances Scarboro and their children to have been Joseph, Mary, John and Benjamin.

In 1643 one, Nicholas White, married Susanna Humphrey at Dorchester, Mass. The exact date of his arrival is not known. His children were Elizabeth, Nicholas, John and Joseph. Of these, Nicholas married Ursula Macomber in 1675 and was the father by her of Nicholas, Matthew, Ephraim, Dorcas, Benjamin, John and Thomas; John married Hannah Smith in 1679 and had issue by her of John, Hannah, Josiah and Elizabeth; and Joseph had by his wife, Mary, ten children, Lydia, Joseph, Edward, Mary, Susanna, William, Nathaniel, Ebenezer, Ephraim and Elizabeth.

Still another branch of the White family to emigrate to America is that which was represented by Thomas White in the year 1670 in Monmouth County, N. J., who came to America from Deal, Kent County, England. He had two sons, Samuel and Peter, and possibly a third named William. Samuel, son of Thomas, had three sons, Thomas, Samuel and Amos. Peter, son of Thomas, had three sons, Peter, Robert and Thomas, and seven daughters, two of whom died in infancy. The surviving five daughters were Mary, Ann, Elizabeth, Sarah and Jane.

There were more than sixty officers by the name of White in the War of the Revolution, among which were Anthony Walton White of New Jersey, Brigadier-General; Alexander White of New Jersey, Captain; Haffield White of New York, Captain; Henry White of South Carolina, Colonel; John White of North Carolina, Colonel; Richard White of Virginia, Captain; Thomas White of Pennsylvania, Captain; William White of New Jersey, Lieutenant; William White of Virginia, Captain; and Hugh White of Pennsylvania, Lieutenant-Colonel.

A few of the members of the family who have distinguished themselves in America in more recent times are:

Andrew Dickson White of New York, educator and author, 1832-1918.

Charles Abiathar White of Massachusetts, geologist, 1826-1921.

Henry White of Maryland, diplomat, 1850-1927.

Israel Charles White of West Virginia, geologist, 1848-1927.

Richard Grant White of New York, author and critic, 1821-1885.

John Hazen White of Ohio, Protestant Episcopal bishop, 1849-1925.

Stanford White, architect, of New York, 1853-1906.

The coat-of-arms of the Somerset family of White which is closely related to many of the American branches of the family, is given as follows:

ARMS — "Gules a chevron, vair, between Lion Rampant," or,

CREST — "Out of a ducal coronet argent, a demi eagle with wings expanded, sable."

MOTTO — "Loyal unto Death."

Chapter II

GENEALOGY AND RECORDS OF THE WHITE FAMILY

OUR AMERICAN ANCESTORS

Whence we came and whither we go should be indelibly impressed upon the mind of an upright people, blessed with intelligence and ambition to pave the way for generations to follow as did the ancestors of our family, collectively, who risked life and fortune in bygone days to pioneer in a new and unexplored country, and handed down to their posterity a heritage, now redundant with plenitude, for our prosperity and happiness.

The march of mankind discloses, beyond peradventure, the interwoven ties of ancestry and posterity, the latter depending upon the former as the scheme of Nature so infinitely provided from the very beginning as demonstrated in the reflection of the Creator upon the created. Nature is shown in its own work, and parentage shines or dims in its own offspring from generation to generation throughout the ages, either for glory or lack of it.

History teaches us that, although civilization develops from one generation to another, yet inherent fundamentals of the human race from the creation of man are everlasting and the possessions of the living as well as of the dead imperishable, indeed, so long as time shall endure. Say what we may, we retain some of the traits, good or bad, our forebearers [sic] had.

As a rule, the White family, from ancestors to descendants, has been, and is characterized by virtue and Godliness, due to the inclinations, teachings and environs of its first known members, whose daily life conformed to the precepts of the Giver of life and all things that are good.

It is fitting that the present generation of the family delve into the history and genealogy of its ancestry and learn the ways of an honorable lineage, and thereby be encouraged to an even greater emulation that naturally springs from inherent traits, some of which will then be quickened from latent to active function, redounding to the glory of the forefathers and giving them new strength to wage successful warfare against the wrong and to attain even more commanding heights on the road of human progress.

The lives of our forefathers provide inspiration to us, and through us, to our children, their children and all future generations of our families; and, so, let us learn of them, -- what they did and how they kept the trust reposed in them that we may be enabled to pass forward to our posterity an unbroken chain of recollection of good deeds in order that they may earnestly strive not only to perpetuate the proud past but also reach nobler heights and set a higher altitude of righteousness for their own descendants down through the ages until time is no more.

It is well to know that religious persecution, arising from the intolerant puritanism of the fourteenth century in England, led to the emigration of our forefathers to the Western Hemisphere, where they blazed the trail for what is now the great republic of the United States of America.

Rebelling against the dictum of the established church of England which undertook to restrict free thought and the worship of God according to individual conscience, as well as against unrestricted murder and exile provided by sanguine laws and brutal rulers, men and women who dared to think, voice their convictions and worship God in their own way, gathered together and in 1607 surreptitiously departed from their homes and firesides in London on a pilgrimage, which landed them at Amsterdam, Holland, where they hoped to improve their condition and enjoy a liberty not accorded them in England.

Finding unsatisfactory sustenance there, some of them later went to Leyden, where under the pastorate of John Robinson, they were free to worship in humble submission to the Divine Will as gleaned from the Scriptures and the instruction imparted by their beloved pastor.

However, not being altogether content there, they, then known as Pilgrims, having heard glowing accounts of America "the land of milk and honey," so to speak, after remaining ten years at Leyden, where they went in 1609, decided to emigrate to the New World. On the morning of July 22, 1620, forty-one Pilgrim families, set sail on the Speedwell, a small bark of sixty tons, headed for the land which later became known as that of "the free and the brave," after they had received the benediction of their pastor, John Robinson, whom they left behind to see no more.

Among those who received Robinson's benediction for a safe voyage and a happy and prosperous life in the country of their intended adoption were our sainted ancestors, William White and his wife, Susanna, with their first-born, Resolved. Landing in the unknown country they left a heritage of virtue and honor which have characterized their progeny in general throughout the generations of the White family in America even to the present period, in all its purity and integrity.

The souls of the Pilgrims were sorely tried before they found themselves actually on the way to their destination, as they first had to make port at Southampton in England to await a larger ship, the Mayflower, which was to pilot them to America and convoy the greater number of their party, and which finally brought them all over. The two ships, with 120 persons aboard, August 5, 1620, took to the sea but the smaller sprang a menacing leak, and they were compelled to return to England at once.

Delayed at Dartmouth, they again set sail August 21, but because of trouble signals, alleged to have been fraudulently given by a bribed Dutch captain, the Speedwell put back to England; and September 6, 1620, the Mayflower sailed alone on a long and tempestuous voyage as she headed undaunted toward the setting sun, across the Atlantic Ocean.

Sixty days later, November 9, standing on the vessel's deck, this band of Pilgrims, sighting the low line of the New World, were made glad, offered up fervent prayer of gratitude to the Almighty and sought Divine guidance. Weak, weary and ill, they nevertheless took on new life and courage and hailed the bleak and barren shore with infinite delight and renewed hope. Four days later, Monday, November 13, sixteen men of the immigrant party headed by Capt. Miles Stan-dish landed to explore the countryside, each carrying his musket, sword and corslet.

Day after day those who had gone ashore sought a convenient harbor and a site to land. They finally come to a small island, now known as Clark's Island, on the last day of the week, where they dried their belongings, fixed their firearms and rested themselves, after returning thanks for their safe voyage and landing. The next day they observed their first Sabbath in the New World, the day being December 9, 1620, (old time).

Monday they sounded the harbor and found it good for shipping; then marched into the immediate interior and discovered an excellent location for settlement, after which they returned to the ship and imported [sic] the welcome news. Historians refer to this Monday as "Forefathers' Day," hallowed as a date in American history, and the site of this Pilgrim settlement is designated as Holy Ground.

Almost insurmountable difficulties were encountered before the party as a whole could find suitable residence, winter having set in. Those who first went ashore were baffled by the surging waters and other obstacles, but they never yielded to the many discouragements in their quest. Even those who remained on the ship became very anxious in the meantime, fearing possible futility of the searchers for a landing place and the probability they would be compelled to return to England. Added to their uneasiness of mind was the anxiety of the captain to discharge his cargo at the earliest moment, so he could start on the return voyage with the Mayflower.

It is interesting to note that before these Pilgrim fathers had found a place to land and settle, five men, namely, John Carver, William Bradford, William White (our ancestor), Edward Winslow and William Brewster, drafted, on the lid of Brewster's chest in the cabin of the Mayflower, an instrument, which promulgated the principle of individual liberty as a human right, and which has greatly influenced the destiny of man ever since. Each man of the Pilgrim party was asked November 11, 1620, to attach his signature to this enduring agreement or compact, which read as follows:

"In the name of God. Amen. We whose names are under written, the loyal subjects of our dread sovereign, Lord King James, by the Grace of God of Great Britain, France and Ireland, King Defender of the Faith, and so forth, having undertaken, for the glory of God, and advancement of the Christian faith and honor of our King and Country, a voyage to plant the first colony in the northern parts of Virginia, do by these presents solemnly and mutually in the presence of one and of another, covenant and combine ourselves together into a civil body politic for our better ordering and preservation and furtherance of the ends aforesaid and by virtue hereof to enact, constitute, and frame such just and equal laws, ordinances, acts, constitutions, and offices from time to time as shall be thought most meet and convenient for the general good of the colony unto which we promise all due submission and obedience.

"In witness whereof we have hereunder subscribed our names at Cape Cod the 11th of November in the year of the reign of our sovereign Lord, King James of England, France and Ireland the eighteenth and of Scotland the fifty-fourth, Anno Domini 1620."

The indenture bore the names of the following heads of families with numerals designating the number in family:

"Mr. John Carver, 8; Samuel Fuller, 2; Mr. William Bradford, 2; Mr. Christopher Martin, 4; Mr. Edward Winslow, 5; Mr. William White, 5; Mr. William Brewster, 6; Mr. William Mullins, 5; Mr. Isaac Allerton, 6; Mr. Richard Warren, 1; Capt. Miles Standish, 2; John Woodman, 1; John Howland; Stephan Hopkins; John Alden, 1; Edward Tilly, 4; John Tilly, 3; James Chilton, 3; Francis Cook, 2; John Cranckston, 2; Thomas Rogers, 2; John Billington, 4; Thomas Tinker, 3; Moses Fletcher, 1;

lerton, 1.

Persons interested can find a reproduction of this compact engraved on a stone in the yard of Pilgrim Hall, Plymouth, Mass. As seen, it was signed by forty-one men, who with their families comprised the 101 who landed on American soil before the Mayflower returned to England. The sixth signer was our honored ancestor, William White.

When these men signed the agreement herein set forth, constitutional liberty was born, and thus originated the "Rights of Man."

Death claimed one member of the party on the way to America and the victim was buried at sea. The others arrived at what is now Plymouth, Mass., among them our ancestor, William White, who shared the dangers, hardships and exposures of pioneer life, and whose high standard of morality, many virtues and principles of conduct ennoble his memory and have been handed down, from generation to generation, whose innumerable members rightly venerate and endeavor to keep sacred the life of him from whom they sprang, by emulating his example of a typical, ideal, mortal career of Godliness as it is given by the Great Creator to his loving and obedient creatures.

Perhaps, no greater tribute can be paid our Pilgrim Father and his venturesome companions and associates than that which the stone monument at Plymouth, Mass., emblazons. Its main pedestal is crowned with a gigantic figure of Faith, which is forty-one feet high, or 216 times life size. She holds in her left hand an open Bible, and her right points heavenward. Four wing pedestals bear emblematic figures which represent Morality, Law, Education and Freedom, the very quintessence of ideal Christianity, and the great fundamental principles which governed the life of our splendid ancestor, William White.

May we all fondly cherish his memory and so live as to prove ourselves worthy of such a noble sire.

Chapter III

This chapter deals with descendants of Peregrine White, son of William White who came to America on the ship Mayflower in 1620, landing at Plymouth, Mass. He was a son of Bishop John White of England. This line of Whites is descended from Thomas White, son of Nicholas White of Suffolk County, England, descendants of Robert White of Calais. Thomas White, son of Nicholas White, purchased the manor of Tuxford, and lived at Woodhead, Rutland County. His son, John White, Knight of Tuxford, was sheriff of Nottinghamshire, in the time of James I. His grandson, John of Tuxford, married Jane, the daughter of Thomas Williamson of Great Markham. Burke states that there were three Johns in succession. In his will dated 1621, Bishop John White, son of the third John, alluded to a son, but did not call the name, "Who has left his country and his church." William White had a brother, John White, who left his country, landing at Norfolk, Va., about 1587, but William was undoubtedly the son to whom the Bishop referred, he having left "his country and church" only a few years hence. This John White is undoubtedly also referred to by Dick Halliday in an article appearing in a publication of the Dell Publishing Company as follows:

"In 1587, Sir Walter Raleigh sent out his third expedition to colonize Virginia. It was under the leadership of John White who was invested with almost unlimited authority to take whatever steps he considered necessary to conciliate the Indians who had opposed the two previous parties of colonists. John White started his work by persuading the Indian Chief, Manteo, to become a Christian and to be baptized into the Church of England. Then, following a detailed formal and comprehensive treaty between the Indians and the colonists, Manteo was formally created a peer of Virginia under the title of Baron of Roanoke. It was the first and only peerage ever made on what is now United States soil."

William White brought with him a Bible which was preserved and prized as a family relic for many years, and to which we are greatly indebted for many of the early family records and much history and data pertaining to the early history of the family. Paper was scarce in those days and the blank leaves and margins of the leaves were used for notations and records. William White married July 1, 1612, in Leyden, Holland, Susanna Fuller, the Rev. John Robinson performing the ceremony. She was a sister of Samuel Fuller who also came to America in the ship Mayflower. William White died March 14, 1621 (some record it as February 21) and his widow, Susanna, was married a second time May 12, 1621, to Edward Winslow, Jr., of Droitwich, England, third signer of the Mayflower compact. She died in October, 1680. Two children were born to William and Susanna (Fuller) White: Resolved White was born in Leyden, Holland, 1614. He married April 8, 1640, Judith Vassall. For a record of his descendants reference is made to "Genealogy of the White Family by Thomas and Samuel White." The second child, Peregrine, was born in the cabin of the Mayflower, as she lay in Cape Cod Harbor, November 20, 1620; and derived his name from the Pilgrim's peregrinations,—the name "Peregrine" signifying "A Pilgrim in a strange land." He was the first native-born New Englander, and his mother, Susanna (Fuller) White, had the honor and distinction of being the first mother, the first widow, and the first bride.

Peregrine White went to Green Harbor with the family of his step-father, Governor Edward Winslow, after the year 1632. He settled on an estate given him by his father-in-law, lying between North and South rivers, not far from their united outlet to the ocean. This tract was early granted to Mr. Bassett by the freemen of the Colony. Mr. Bassett was one of the land committee of the Colony and was a large land holder. He resided in Duxbury; but removed to Bridgewater, probably about 1645 or 1648, as at that time Bridgewater was settled by freemen from Duxbury. Mr. Bassett died in Bridgewater, 1667, and left a large and valuable library for that period to his son-in-law, Peregrine White. Peregrine White died July 20, 1704, and his wife Sarah (Bassett) White, died January 20, 1711.

Peregrine White held many offices in the town (Marshfield, Mass.) and his name appears in many of the early records. November, 1651, it was "Voted at Townmeeting that Mr. White look to all such persons as live disorderly in the Township, and give them warning, and in case they do not redress their course of life, that he shall use such means to redress such abuses as he finds in such persons." He was chosen one of the raters, (now selectmen) 1651-1655; representative to General Court, 1659; grand juryman, 1660; and selectman, 1661 to 1665. As early as 1637 he was one of thirty volunteers "to assist them of Massachusetts Bay and Connecticut in their wars against the Pequian Indians"; one of the jury to lay out roads, 1667; selectman, 1672; deputy to General Court, 1673; foreman of a jury to lay out roads in Marshfield, 1675; chosen one of Council of War, of which he was an active member "in tongue and gune," 1673, after which he is styled "Capt. White." On Marshfield's town records bearing date 1644, there are thirty-three freemen of which Peregrine White's name is the twelfth.

On the Marshfield church records appears the following in the Rev. Edward Thompson's handwriting (record previously having been lost or destroyed): "Capt. Peregrine White, the first born child of New England, was admitted into the church in the 78th year of his age." On the occasion of which the Rev. Thompson preached from Matt. 20:6-7: "And about the eleventh hour he went out, and found others standing idle, and saith unto them, why stand ye here all the day idle? They say unto him, Because no man hath hired us. He said unto them, Go ye also into the vineyard; and whatsoever is right, that shall ye receive."

It is stated that he was a son always filial and loving, visiting his mother daily, riding on a large black horse, his coat buttoned with buttons the size of a silver dollar. In the Boston Weekly News Letter of July 31, 1704, the fifteenth number of the first newspaper printed in New England, appeared the notice of his death: "Marshfield, July 20, Capt. Peregrine White of this town died here the 20th inst., aged 83 years and 8 months. He was vigorous and of a comely aspect to the last."

The exact spot of his interment is unknown, but it is probably in the Winslow burying-ground where his mother was buried. An old book, "The Life of John Eliot," written by Cotton Mather about 1695, once owned by Peregrine, was in possession of E. L. B. Howard, Cambridge, Mass., in 1895. It bore the autograph of Peregrine White, 1702, two years previous to his death.

Peregrine White, second son of William and Susanna (Fuller) White, was born in the cabin of the ship, Mayflower, as she lay in Cape Cod Harbor, November 20, 1620, and died July 20, 1704. He married December 24, 1646, Sarah Bassett (died 1711), daughter of William and Elizabeth Bassett. They had the following children, probably all born in Marshfield, Mass.:

1. Daniel White, born in 1649; mar. Hannah Hunt.
2. Sarah White, born in Oct. 1663; mar. to Thomas Young.
3. Mercy White, mar. Feb. 3, 1697 to William Sherman; died 1739.
4. Jonathan White, born June 4, 1658.
5. Peregrine White, born in 1660.
6. Sylvanus White.

Jonathan White, son of Peregrine and Sarah (Bassett) White, was born June 4, 1658, in Marshfield, Mass. He married first, Feb. 2, 1682, Esther Nickerson and had six children. After her death on February 8, 1703, he married second, August 8, 1708, Margaret Elizabeth Alexander (born about 1670; died Apr. 12, 1718), (see "White Family of Yarmouth" by W. P. Davies (1912), pages 1 and 3) and had at least two children and probably others. The will of Jonathan White was made July 14, 1736, and proved February 22, 1737, but no record of an inventory was found (see Barnstable Co. Prob. Records, V:304). Children:

1. Jonathan White, mar. in 1717, Dorcas Hamblin.
 2. Ebenezer White, mar. in 1727, Mary Smith.
 3. Joseph White, born in 1702; mar. in 1736, Lydia Baker. Children, Joseph and Anna.
 4. Esther White, mar. in 1707, to John Joyce.
 5. Mary White, mar. in 1729 to James Russell.
 6. Sarah White, mar. in 1741 to Barnard Lambert.
 7. Elizabeth White, mar. to --- Dell; had son, Jonathan.
 8. Alexander White, born Sept. 8, 1709.
 9. Margaret White.
- (Possibly one named John).

[The descent of Alexander White from Jonathan White is apparently supported only by the evidence of entries in a Bible published in 1870. It is not indicated that these entries were copied from an earlier Bible record or from other authentic family records, and the will of Jonathan does not mention a son Alexander. For this reason the Society of Mayflower Descendants does not accept the line of Alexander White as authentic descendants of Peregrine White. See the letter reproduced on page 136. L.B.B.]

Alexander White I, son of Jonathan White and Margaret Elizabeth (Alexander) White was born in Massachusetts probably in the vicinity of Yarmouth September 8, 1709, and died in Greenwich Township, Sussex County (Warren Co. since 1824), New Jersey, September 1776. Just when he came to New Jersey from Massachusetts is not known but on September 30, 1756, he was a witness to the will of Henry William. In 1762, he purchased a tract of land of Benjamin Vannetten who was one of the six brothers that purchased the William Penn tract in West Jersey from the William Penn heirs in the year 1740. At the time of his death in 1776 Alexander White I owned at least three tracts of land. He disposed of two in his will, but the plantation on which stood the famous "Whitehall" mansion mentioned elsewhere herein, was not mentioned probably for the reason that the law of primogeniture would automatically give it to the oldest son, William. At least, William White, according to the records, obtained "Whitehall" and the plantation on which it stood, by the law of primogeniture, at his father's death.

Although the will of Alexander White I styles him a "cordwainer," or shoemaker, he served his community as an advisor or counsellor at law. The many documents of record in the New Jersey Archives, on which appears the name of Alexander White, attest his popularity and the confidence the public at that time had in his ability to handle matters of great importance. The following are extracts of wills taken from The New Jersey Archives on which the name of Alexander White appears in one way or another:

"1756, Sept. 30. William, Henerie (Henry) of Greenwich, Sussex Co., N. J. Witnesses: Philipp Chapman, Alexander White, Geo. Andrew Viesselium. Proved Nov. 9, 1756. Inventory made 1756, Nov. 1, by Wm. Scholey and Alexander White."

Alexander White II, son of Alexander White I of Sussex County, New Jersey, was born June 4, 1752. He married January 25, 1769, Mary Clifford of Hunterdon County, Bethlehem Township, New Jersey, (see New Jersey Archives) who was the daughter of George and Mary Clifford. Mary (Clifford) White died in Lewis County, (West) Virginia, in 1826, leaving a will, a copy of which follows this sketch.

Records in the office of the Adjutant General of the State of New Jersey show that Alexander White II served in the Army as Captain, Wagonmaster-General's Department, under Col. Jacob West, Deputy Quartermaster General, from 1776 to 1779, during the Revolutionary War. Although the author has not yet found records to substantiate it, there is a tradition handed down that Alexander White, as did his brother William, personally financed a company during the Revolutionary War, keeping a memorandum of his expenditures with the hope of being reimbursed by the government. It is said that the "red tape" necessary to get the claim through Congress delayed action until the War of 1812 came on, at which time the British burned our capitol destroying all records. Alexander White died in the winter of 1814-15 and his claim was never pushed further. Paxton E. S. White, grandson of Alexander White, frequently referred to having seen his grandfather's memorandum book in which he kept the records of the Revolutionary War expenditures. The book was destroyed when the old log cabin burned down many years later.

Alexander White II was a man of unusual intellect and a leader among men. He was an excellent surveyor, his ability as such having been recognized by George Washington who induced Alexander and his brother, Samuel, to go to Virginia where both brothers leased land which was formerly a part of the Thomas Lord Fairfax estate, and which Washington himself had surveyed many years before. Records in the office of the County Clerk of Hardy County, West Virginia, (Deed Book 2, Page 182) shows that Alexander White leased land December 4, 1790, of Danny Fairfax of Seeds Castle, County of Kent and Kingdom of Great Britain, and sold the same, 100 acre lease located on the South Branch of the Potomac River, by deed dated October 11, 1797, to John Hay for the consideration of seventy pounds sterling. The following year and up until the year of his death (1814), the name of Alexander White appeared on the tax list ("List of Tithables") of Harrison Co., (West) Virginia, which proves that he moved to Harrison County immediately after selling his property in Hardy County. He located in the vicinity of Jackson's Mill, now Lewis County, West Virginia, where he spent the rest of his life. He evidently did not purchase land immediately after settling on Freeman's Creek as we find no record of his having done so until the year 1809. By deeds dated April 16, 1809, (see Deed Book No. 8, Page No. 320) (Col.) Edward Jackson sold three tracts of land to Alexander White, William White and 'Mamuel Alkire, respectively, William White being a son of Alexander White, and 'Mamuel Alkire, a son-in-law.

Note: The fact that a mark was made to a will instead of a signature does not necessarily mean that that person could not write. Often wills were signed on the death bed after the patient was too weak to sign his name.

The children of Alexander II and Mary (Clifford) White, were:

1. Alexander White.
2. Henry White (Never mar.).
3. Peregrine White, born June 10, 1778; died Aug. 5, 1784.
4. Margaret White, born Aug. 11, 1780; mar. to Adam Alkire.
5. William Wellington White, born Feb. 4, 1783.
6. Sarah White, born Feb. 4, 1786; mar. to Emanuel Alkire.
7. George Beaver White, born Oct. 13, 1788.
8. James White, born June 19, 1791.
9. John White, born May 2, 1794.
10. Joseph White, born May 4, 1795.

11. Robert White. (Moved to Missouri and family to Calif. Had a descendant, George White, who died near Lamar, Mo.)
12. Nancy White, mar. to William J. Bailey.

James White, son of Alexander and Mary (Clifford) White, was born in Hardy County, (West) Virginia, June 19, 1791. When he was six years of age his parents sold their land in Hardy County and moved to Harrison County (now Lewis County) in the vicinity of where Jackson's Mill now is. From early childhood he was of an erratic temperament and when the War of 1812 came on, he enlisted in the service. When he returned home from the War he went to visit his brother, George, who lived on Pond Creek near Belleville, Wood County, (West) Virginia, where he met Mary Coleman (born Oct. 2, 1796; died Dec. 29, 1858, and is buried in the old family cemetery on Pond Creek), whom he married December 13, 1813 (recorded in Wood County Marriage Book 1, Page 9). Young James was a splendid marksman with the rifle and one of his hobbies was to conceal himself in the bushes on the bank of the Ohio River and shoot at the Indians as they passed along the trail on the Ohio side of the river. This sport ended rather abruptly one day, however, when he found that he was playing a game that was a daily pastime of his adversaries across the river.

There is recorded in the Jackson County records at Ripley, W. Va., a number of deeds to which James White was a party. In Deed Book 1, Page 5, a deed dated August 12, 1831, Peter Anderson of Belleville, Wood County, (West) Virginia, deeded to James White and wife, Mary, granddaughter, for "true love and affection" 76 acres of land on Right Hand Ford of Pond Creek. In Deed Book 2, Page 437, Miles Jacoby and wife deeded 200 acres of land to James White and Wife. The acknowledgment was taken before Thomas Coleman, Justice of the Peace. In Wood County Records, Will Book 1, Page 148, dated June 28, 1815, is a record of Peter Anderson's bond as Sheriff of that county. In Deed Book 4, Page 59, dated March 13, 1840, there is a transfer of 37 acres of land on Pond Creek to James White.

James White died June 8, 1858, and both he and his wife are buried in the family cemetery on Pond

Creek, Jackson County. A number of his children, as well as the children of his brother, George, died young of consumption. The old house where James White lived still stands on Pond Creek. His will is recorded in Will Book 2, Page 57, at Ripley in Jackson County, W. Va. He had the following children, probably all born in Jackson County:

1. Jane White, born Nov. 26, 1814; mar. to Samuel Mills.
2. Matilda White, born Nov. 12, 1816; mar. first to Edward White; mar. second to Allen Davis.
3. Mary White, born Mar. 15, 1819; died Jan. 2, 1847; mar. to a Smith (brother of John Marshall Smith).

EXCERPTS FROM
"HISTORY OF THE SAMUEL MILLS FAMILY"

Written by Alta M. Mills in 1928

Samuel Mills was the son of John Mills, one of the pioneer settlers of Ohio. John Mills was shot by Indians fourteen times, one shot going clear through his body. A woman took a silk handkerchief and drew it through the opening, cleaning the wound, and it healed up all right.

Samuel Mills was born in Guernsey Co. Ohio in 1809. In 1832 he moved to West Virginia, where he met Jane White. They were married in 1836 and settled on a farm near Murraysville, Jackson County West Virginia. Twelve children — six sons and six daughters — were born to them, all of whom lived to be grown. In 1864 they sold their farm in West Virginia, moved to Indiana and settled near Queensville, Jennings County, buying the Jack Henry farm — two miles north of Queensville. A schoolhouse was located on a corner of the farm and was known as the Mills Schoolhouse.

Samuel Mills was a farmer and had also learned the tanners trade. He tanned the leather and made the shoes for all his family until they were all (or nearly all) grown. His boys said they never had a pair of shoes except what their father made for them until they joined the army and the government furnished them shoes.

Samuel Mills was licensed as a Local Preacher in the Methodist Church at a time when Local Preachers had something to do. He raised his children in the church and was very careful in observing the Sabbath as a day of rest and religious worship. Let us hope his descendants will follow his, and his good wife's, example in this — and also in their honesty and patience and upright life.

On December 22, 1876 their house with most of the contents was destroyed by fire. Mr. Jarvis Plymate, a neighbor offered them part of his house and they moved in and at once began planning to build a new home to replace the one destroyed by fire. On New Year's Day, 1877 his sons began hauling logs to a sawmill at Scipio for lumber for the new house, and soon began to bring a load of lumber back with them. The father built a dry house, as he called it, and seasoned the lumber ready to use as soon as spring opened. Orlando Baker, of North Vernon was engaged as carpenter. After the frame of the house was up Samuel Mills was helping, using a broadax in hewing some of the timbers, and cut his foot and gangrene set in. After suffering intensely he died, April 21, 1877. When school closed the family had moved into the schoolhouse to be nearer the work on the new house and also nearer the farm work. So he died near where he had lived, and in sight of the new home being built. His son, Alexander Mills, was appointed administrator to settle up the estate. The mother retained that part of the farm where the farm buildings were. When the house was finished she moved in and her son Thomas remained with her until her death, Jan. 29, 1887.

Father and Mother Mills lie buried side by side in the cemetery at Scipio, Jennings County, Indiana. Five of their children are buried in the same cemetery. They are: Thomas and James and Charlotte and Nancy and Sarah.

Marion Marcellus, the oldest child of Samuel and Jane Mills enlisted in the 4th Regt. West Va. Vol. Inf. in the Civil War. He was taken sick and was granted sick leave and started home on a boat. When the boat reached Portsmouth he was taken to the home of a relative, Mary Middleswath, and his parents were sent for. His father arrived before his death, but his mother, who was taken in a skiff by her youngest son Dick, arrived after his death. His remains were taken home and buried near their home in West Virginia. He died July 22, 1863.

The third child, Thomas Coke, was born Sept. 21, 1840. He was a farmer and stayed on the farm with his parents. His mother left him the home farm in her will at her death in 1887. He lived there until 1897, when he sold the farm, later buying a small place near Scipio, Ind., where he died Dec. 12, 1907. He never married and was 67 years old when he died. He was buried at Scipio, Ind.

James Mills, the fourth child, enlisted in the 9th

Regt. West Va. Vol. Inf. and served three years. He was taken prisoner and sent to Belle Isle, where he was so nearly starved that when he was exchanged he was sent to a hospital and allowed very little to eat at first. He would crawl to the cots of his comrades and get the crumbs they had dropped and eat them. His health was so impaired that he never fully recovered from the effects of his service in the army. When he was discharged he came to Indiana where his parents had moved and later went to Kansas. He drove through in a wagon and settled in Labette County, where he was married in 1868 to Peninah Lisle Hanson, his sweetheart in West Virginia before the war. She died in 1869. In 1874 he was married to Martha Hanson of Barnesville, Ohio, a cousin of Peninah. They were married in Kansas and their oldest son, Howard was born there. His wife was a schoolteacher and taught in Kansas. They returned to Indiana in January 1875 and during the winter '76 and '77 Martha Mills taught at the Mills Schoolhouse.

The fifth and sixth children were twins, Alexander Hamilton and Francis Asbury. They too grew to manhood in the West Virginia home and enlisted in the 13th W.Va. Vol. Inf. at the age of 18 years. As they looked so much alike their officers could not tell them apart so Asbury was made a Corporal of the Color Guard and a stripe put on his sleeve. But in less than eighteen months Asbury was taken sick with pneumonia and sent to an Army Hospital where he died Jan. 18, 1864. The river was frozen over and no boats running so he was buried with the honors of a soldier. When ice broke up and boats could run, his twin brother Alexander and one of their officers, Lieut. George Snowdon, accompanied the remains home, where he was buried beside his brother Marion near the old home where the parents still lived. After Asbury's death Alexander was made Corporal of the Color Guard in Asbury's place. Alexander was detailed to guard John Morgan's brother Dick, (and part of Morgan's men) from where they were captured at Buffington's Island, to Cincinnati, Ohio on a boat. In 1900 at Dale, Indiana he met one of the prisoners he had helped to guard, and they talked over incidents of the trip. Alexander was at the battle of Cedar Creek, where Sheridan made his famous ride from Winchester, twenty miles away.

Of the four brothers who went to the front to serve their country only two lived to return home.

At the close of the war Alexander visited the old home in West Virginia and his brothers' graves, then came to Indiana to his father's home. Later he went to Columbus, Indiana and learned the painter's trade later going to Illinois where he worked at his trade for four years. Upon returning home he took up farming. In September of 1876 he was married to Alta M. Eastman. They lived in Jennings County until moving to Dale, Indiana October, 1898.

The seventh child of Samuel and Jane Mills was John Nelson. He had very light hair when he was small and that seemed to be unusual in the family and his brothers called him "Dicky Towhead." The nickname seems to have been used from that time on and his relatives, as well as his friends knew him as Dick -- or Uncle Dick. The home was about fifty feet from the Ohio River (think of raising six boys that close to a river!) and before Dick could talk plainly he would beg his mother to let him go to the river to "frim." But if he was not afraid of water he must have been afraid of fire. He went out where his father was clearing land and had quite a fire going. Dick ran home and crawled under the bed and told his mother the world was on fire. Their mother said her three oldest boys were very quiet, but the twins and Dick were different. What one did not think of the other one did, and they were usually into some mischief. They had heard older ones talk of hanging men, so they got pawpaw bark and tied it around the necks of her goslings and hung them up in a row and said they were hanging men. She said they did not deserve a feather bed, but just the same she gave each one a feather bed, the same as she did her girls.

When the other brothers joined the Army Dick enlisted in the home guards and served six months. That left his parents and six sisters at home and only his brother Thomas to help work the farm. His father wrote a letter to the Governor of West Virginia and told him he had four boys at the front and his youngest son in the home guards, and only one son at home to help make a living. The Governor ordered Dick sent home. He said four out of one family was enough. When his parents moved to Indiana in 1864 Dick came with them. In 1867 he was married to Emmaline Sumpter. They lived on one of his father's farms in Jennings County until 1871, when they moved to Wabash County where they reared their family.

The six daughters who came to Indiana with Samuel and Jane Mills were Mary 26, Charlotte 17, Rebecca 15, Nancy 13, Sarah 10, and Louisa Alice (Allie) 8. Mary was married to Samuel Sweet and lived in Wabash County. She had no children. Charlotte came to Indiana with her parents and was married to Mahlon Johnson. Three children were born to them --Harley Samuel and twin boys, Walter and Waldo. One twin died when he was six months old and one when he was one year old. Charlotte died July 9, 1874. She was buried at Scipio. After her death the husband married again and the last we knew of them Harley was living in Chicago and was a photographer. Sarah married William Hutchings of Scipio. She died at the birth of her first child in 1875. The daughter, Jennie, lived only a few weeks. Allie was married to Rev. J. A. Richardson in 1878. After serving as Pastor of United Brethern churches in Southern Indiana and Wisconsin he retired in 1918, and they lived in Wabash, Indiana until their deaths.

Rebecca was married to Wesley Comer in 1869. He died in 1878. Rebecca and her four daughters moved to her mother's home where for nearly nine years she helped her brother Thomas in caring for their mother. After her mother's death in 1887 she remained with her brother until he sold the home farm. Her girls had all grown to young womanhood and were married. In 1897 she was married to Granville Campbell and lived on the Campbell farm until his death in 1901. After his death she spent her time with her children.

Nancy was married to Napoleon B. Fields in 1879 and had two daughters. She had very poor health and died at the age of thirty eight, in 1889.

REMINISCENCES

Fire seems to be the worst enemy of the Mills'. The home of Samuel Mills burned down December 22, 1876.

In July, 1880 the home of John and Allie Richardson burned. They were living on the Burnett farm near Queensville and were not at home and lost all except the clothes they were wearing. After Samuel and Mary Sweet moved from the farm into Wabash their home was partly burned, the upper story and contents being damaged. Dick Mills, after moving from the farm into Wabash, built a house and later it burned, part of the contents being saved. During the winter of 1905 and 1906 the home of Curtis and Wayne Mills, near Scipio, burned and all their household goods were burned. During the winter of 1907 and 1908 the home of Franklin and Lulu Cornwith was destroyed by fire. They were living near Bearcreek. Their household goods were also a total loss. So it seems a pretty good motto for us all would be — "Be careful of fire!"

When the children of Samuel and Jane Mills were growing up in the old home in West Virginia there were no public schools, only subscription schools. They were very irregular so their chances for an education were very limited. The younger children, after coming to Indiana, went to the public school at the schoolhouse on the Mills farm. The grandchildren of Samuel Mills were all raised in Indiana, and enjoyed many advantages their grandparents and parents never had.

At Anderson (1927) it was decided to have a History written of the Samuel and Jane Mills family. I was asked to write it and with the help of the descendants, in furnishing dates I have done the best I could and hope it will be acceptable to all. May God's protecting care continue to be over us as we continue our Journey, even to the end.

COMPOSED ON THE DEATH OF
MARION AND ASBURY MILLS

by Mrs. L. T. Whiteside of West Virginia, in 1867

Asbury Mills and Marion were brothers brave and true,
They volunteered to face the foe, and quickly dressed in blue.
Each did perform a faithful part until he could do no more,
And then the Lord called them away from earth's polluted shore.

Their numerous friends were left to mourn when death called them away,
And their cold bodies were sent home, two lumps of lifeless clay,
Though cannons loud on earth should war, or storms beat on their graves,
I trust their spirits will be safe beyond Death's chilling waves.

They are mouldering on an eminence near the Virginia shore,
The marble slab that marks the place I can view from my door.
I often cast my eyes that way and think of days gone by,
Then wonder why God called them home, instead of worthless I.

They had two brothers in the field whose hearts for them were warm,
They went through showers of shot and shell, but did survive the storm.
Two more at home with parents stayed ('Tis said, reluctantly).
O may these severed ties unite in long eternity.

SOCIETY OF MAYFLOWER DESCENDANTS
IN THE STATE OF ILLINOIS
MISS JEAN RUMSEY, HISTORIAN
447 ST. JAMES PLACE, CHICAGO 14, ILLINOIS

GRACELAND 7-2063

February 23, 1958

Dear Mrs. Blackburn,

The Historian General wrote me the following letter on February 18.

I regret that it is impossible to approve the lineage paper of Mrs. Louise Alice (Brown) Blackburn, based on a claim of descent from William White, since this Society does not accept the claim that Alexander White of New Jersey was the son of Jonathan White, and thus a descendant of William White of the Mayflower.

Several years ago this claim was submitted by Mr. Roscoe R. White, compiler of the White Family Records, cited as a reference in the present application. Mr. White's only reference for these "Records" was a family Bible, the Bible having been printed in 1870. Since the entries were all in the same handwriting and the Bible was of such relatively recent date, it was believed that the information lacked the real value of a Bible record, that is, the personal knowledge of the person making the entries, which took place in the early 1700's. This person could not have had actual knowledge that Alexander White, born in 1709, was the son of Jonathan White of Generation 3. (The will of Jonathan White, published in "The Mayflower Descendant," Vol.9, page 122, does not mention a son Alexander.)

In spite of the rejection of this claim by the Society of Mayflower Descendants Mr. Roscoe R. White published in 1938-41 the "White Family Records", based on these same Bible records, and a few years later Mr. White again presented an application citing this authority. At the time of the presentation of both of these lineage papers by Mr. Roscoe White, there was considerable correspondence between Mr. White and two Historians General. However, no new evidence was ever produced which appears to us to support the claim that Jonathan White had a son Alexander or that Alexander White of New Jersey came from Yarmouth, Mass., and the second paper of Mr. Roscoe White was rejected, as have been several later papers based on this claim and using the same reference.

Mrs. Blackburn's paper has therefore been placed in our Rejection File #192, and the State copy is returned for your file. I hope that she may be able to find a Mayflower lineage which can be approved.

Sincerely

Adele W. Allen
Historian General

Mrs. Allen's sentiments expressed in the first and last sentences are mine also. I do indeed hope that you can find another line so that we can have you as a member of our Illinois Society.

I am returning your work sheet to you, for what it's worth.

Sadly

Miss Rumsey
